

The Foreign Policy Institute (FPI) seeks student researchers/student coordinators

The position responsibilities include:

- Contributing to the FPI online presence via website maintenance, posts to the FPI Facebook and Twitter feeds, and soliciting blog posts from FPI Fellows and members of the SAIS community
- Assisting with event planning and providing logistical support
- Researching and writing for Prof. Freeman as required
- Performing general office duties as needed

Qualifications:

- Excellent administrative and organizational skills
- Exceptional oral and written communication skills.
- Ability to work effectively while balancing multiple assignments

Anticipated work week: 10-19 hours, with flexibility

The position will begin as soon as possible and last until the end of the Spring 2017 semester with a possibility of extension for first year students. PhD students are also encouraged to apply.

To apply, please submit the following to Christine Kunkel, ckunkel@jhu.edu:

- Cover letter
- CV
- A 2-3 paragraph essay highlighting what you believe to be the most significant foreign policy issue facing the world today and why.

FPI website: <http://www.fpi.sais-jhu.edu/>

FPI Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/TheForeignPolicyInstitute>

FPI Twitter: https://twitter.com/fpi_sais

The Foreign Policy Institute (FPI) of The Johns Hopkins University's Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) was established in 1980 to unite the worlds of scholarship and policy in the search for realistic answers to international issues facing the United States and the world.

The FPI seeks to advance practically oriented research and discussion about foreign policy. To this end, it organizes research initiatives and study groups, and hosts leaders from around the world as resident or non-resident fellows in fields including international policy, business, journalism, and academia.